

Teyana Taylor attacked by director of "Gangs of Roses 2"

Written by Shemika Mitchell George
Friday, 02 September 2011 00:00

Teyana Taylor attacked by director of

"Gangs of Roses 2"

"Teyana Taylor, Amber Rose and Claudia Jordan" are starring in the remake of "Gangs of Roses" part 2 of a 2003 Western movie that featured LisaRaye, Monica Calhoun, Stacey Dash and Lil Kim. Amber Rose recently spoke about how she snagged the role of a bounty hunter in the movie saying.....

“Well, Jean-Claude is the director and he’s friends with my lawyer – he approached my lawyer about having me in the movie. I read the script and I was like, ‘Hell yeah,’ ’cause I’m playing a bounty hunter.

So I’m like the bad ass that goes and tries to catch all the girls that are, like, doing bank jobs. You know, it’s kinda hard for me to play like — I’m actually a butch lesbian in the movie, so, yeah, I was just like around Wiz and the boys and I’m just trying to sit like them and use their mannerisms and stuff.

Teyana Taylor attacked by director of "Gangs of Roses 2"

Written by Shemika Mitchell George
Friday, 02 September 2011 00:00

Now about this Jean-Claude director, he has what I would like to call an unclean reputation!! Apparently Teyana Taylor was complaining of a toothache and needed to go when she tried to tell the director this she was called a bitch and then slapped..... Say what?? My first thought was "That must be part of the movie" until Teyana spoke to "Global Grind" and told the incident in detail.

Honestly at this point you know how when you're just tired of all the drama, I'm just so over it and what that story (TMZ) sounds like, honestly it sounds like he was trying to promote his movie, that's all that is. At the end of the day you don't put your hands on any female, it was very unprofessional. That whole environment was very unprofessional, very inappropriate. It was just things that my eyes shouldn't have seen. For him to put his hands on me was really hurtful. I don't have a dad, I never had a dad and I ain't about to have one today. I have never had a man raise his hand at me.

It's very emotional for me

, it's a very sensitive subject and at the end of the day, right is right and wrong is wrong. You never put your hands on a female.

Period

When I came on set there was no food, there was no hair stylist, no make-up and the trailer was the size of my tub. I had to get my agent and my mom, who is my manager, involved and then we started getting hair and make up, but that only lasted for one day. He was just mad because I came in there and he felt that I was about my business and he didn't like that and it felt like he already had a grudge against me. I was really supposed to only film for five days. The day me and him got into that altercation, that was day seven. Out of the kindness of my heart I came to do extra scenes for him so he would have an ending to his movie.

On that day, my face was very, very swollen because of a problem with my tooth. That tooth thing was no joke. I could've died right there on set and he wouldn't have even cared. That's the point because he was more worried about himself. It was about him wanting to get his movie done so it was like, forget her tooth, her face is swollen but I want her to film more parts and I really don't care if her face is swollen. He didn't care and it took him to ignore my illness more than three times for me to finally raise my voice. I walked up to him and I was like -- I walked to him crying, like my tooth is really hurting, my face is getting worse, I really have to go and he was like "Yeah okay ... whatever..." He turned around and kept going about his business. So I raised my tone and I said look, I can't wait a minute, I can't wait two minutes, I can't wait a second, I really, really need to go. He turned around and he said 'Don't f*cking scream at me b*tch' and smacked his hand across my face and from there I defended myself.

Here's a tip that was sent to the "YBF" about the woman beater (Did I just write that?)
Oops, I meant to say director :) happy

Ask your Black actress friends about Jeanclaude Lamarre. He is known for sh*tty straight to dvd movies, but NOTORIOUS in Hollywood for sleeping with young girls and promising them

Teyana Taylor attacked by director of "Gangs of Roses 2"

Written by Shemika Mitchell George
Friday, 02 September 2011 00:00

roles in movies, even though he is married with 2 small children. He has gotten into a fight before on a David E. Talbert production years ago in NY. He his a FEMALE co-star. Even in college he was notorious for fighting and stealing money from his school. Here is the NY Times article about him swindling money from

CUNY

. If you have any Black actress friends that you are close to, ask them about this guy. I was not on that set, but I am willing to bet money this dude hit her first.

In fact the producer on that roses movie is 22 and has been one of his many sidechicks for YEARS. And I don't wish to have my email address known, for fear of retaliation from this guy. You have no idea!

SN: I smell a Shug Knight situation!! I know you want a gig but you need to run Amber run, Wiz is too small to protect you!! Just joking Wiz, you know I'm on your level..... :)
happy