

Randy Moss RETIRED!!!

Written by Administrator
Tuesday, 02 August 2011 00:00

Randy Moss RETIRED!!!

Randy Moss RETIRED!!! No long farewell speech, No tearful goodbye, no hand written letter not even a DRY wave from a record-setting performer who changed the way defense is played in the NFL.

Just a one-sentence statement from his agent saying one of the most colorful careers in league history was over.

Then again Randy Moss has never been one to conform to conventions. "In a lot of ways, he was the Michael Jordan of offenses in our league," Vikings 'He was a special player for a long, long time." said Leslie Frazier. In fact Vikings tight end Jim Kleinsasser said '

'The things I've seen him do, I don't think I'll ever see another player do the things he did," "Great career. Tough to see him not playing because I think he had a lot left out there that he could have done for somebody."

While many gripe with what Moss' legacy will be, there is no denying the impact he had on the game. The Cover 2 defense has become a fashionable scheme over the past 10 years, and it was designed in large part to prevent Moss from burning opposing defensive backs for long TDs. The Jets were believed to have some interest in Moss, but Segal declined to elaborate on the options that were available. Whether the 34-year-old Moss is truly done is anyone's guess. That, of course, appears to be completely up to him.

Video: Glazer: Moss will be missed